SELECTED WORKS ON ASIAN PACIFIC AMERICAN LANGUAGE PRACTICES

Adrienne Lo and Angela Reyes

We prepared this bibliography in response to requests from colleagues who have had difficulty finding pieces on the language practices of Asian Pacific Americans for use in research and teaching. The works below draw upon research in different traditions, including education, sociolinguistics, discourse analysis, language acquisition, communications, social psychology and conversational analysis. We have tried to include a variety of works on different ethnic groups, while highlighting key pieces from individual authors.

Needham, Susan (2003) "This is active learning": Theories of language, learning, and social relations in the transmission of Khmer literacy. Anthropology and Education Quarterly 34.1: 27-49.

